The course does not have golf carts but brings them from another site when needed. Thus, knowing enough in advance is important to assure a cart.

It really sounds unique and will be a pleasure to play among the cadavers.

Lake Zurich Golf Club

By John Rutledge

The course at 564 North Old Rand Road was established in 1895 and is one of the oldest courses in the country. It is incorporated as a cemetery with several graves situated to "foil the vile machinations of a huge and heartless railroad corporation who, through the iniquitous law of the right of eminent domain had thought to seize this beautiful spot for its own fell purposes," according to a sign posted in front of the graves. It is a small club with only about thirty members who feel free to pack a picnic lunch and take their dog and kids along when they play the nine-hole course.

The clubhouse ("house" being operative) is a delightfully comfortable old place with a big front porch complete with swing and a beautiful view across the oaks on the lawn and the lake across the street. Chester Gould ("Dick Tracy") was a member, and several of his murals grace the walls.

It is not necessary to be a golfer to enjoy the club. In fact, I do not play and am perfectly content to sit on the porch swing with refreshments and wait for the poor hackers to drift back in.

Plan to set aside the day and play the course two or three times. It is a rare opportunity. Or just sit with me on the porch.

The Ancient Game of Goff and the Goffers

Banned by decree of James IV in 1491: It is agin the common good of the realm and the defence thereof. It is a well-knowne fact that Goffers are a tribe apart. Thru playing Goff unceasingly their very natures change, and they become tacurne, sullen, peevish, and irritable! They speake, eat, drink, sleepe and jabber Goff, forgetting their chattels and infants and spend moneies only on balls, clubs, or a majic drink called wiski. The clubb makers and the wiski-sellers make enormous fortunes while the Goffers families are in great famine. These Goffers have been knowne to rise with the lark to play Goff, and continue throughout the daylight hours only stopping for short tymes and wiski. Such are the very odd ways of Goffers.
